What is JUDICIAL Services?

To those, who have an inclination towards public service or the trappings of state authority, the judiciary can be a worthwhile option. Not only, it is a way to remain closely connected with the law throughout your professional life, but also one that offers the satisfaction of working for the good of society, an intellectually stimulating profession where you shall command the respect of the common man.

There are two avenues open to become a member of the judiciary.

The FIRST AVENUE is to participate in the competitive process for the judicial services. The judicial services have two entry levels. The first is for fresh graduates through an entrance exam conducted by the respective state public service commissions (like Punjab, Haryana, UP, MP, Rajasthan etc.) or the High Court (Delhi). The syllabus for these exams can be found on the website of the commissions and includes law subjects along with English, General Knowledge and the Local language of the state. An entry through this avenue assures you of time based promotions and a secured employment early on in your career.

The SECOND AVENUE is to start a litigation practice and hope to get elevated to the bench. This service is open for lawyers with a certain prescribed minimum years (Seven years) of litigation practice. For that applicants have to appear in a competitive examination conducted by the High Court of Judicature of different states which is known as the Higher Judicial Service (HJS) and the syllabus for which is similar to the one described above. The advantage with this option is that if selected the applicant gets posted as an additional district judge which significantly hastens promotional prospects and the candidate can become a High Court Judge.

If you want a secure and safe career and wish to be in public service, albeit with a comfortable compensation package instead of the vagaries of litigation, then the judicial services is the right choice for you.

How to crack JUDICIAL Services Exam

A BRIEF INTRODUCTION

Law - an interesting subject:

Law is a subject which is based more upon concept and analysis apart from being interesting and applied, Law offers great career opportunities in current times. In Judicial services, the exams are conducted in 3 stages i.e. preliminary, mains & interview. So while preparing we have to keep all the 3 stages of examination in mind.

PRELIMS

In preliminary examination the requirements are as (1) understanding the basics from the bare act and illustrations (2) comprehension of celebrated case laws, i.e. application of legal concepts in factual situation (3) finding factual information apart from changes in law (temporal variation) either by amendment in statute or by reversal or by overruling of decisions (4) legal maxims, its meaning and application.
MAINS

In mains examination one should develop the capacity to understand the call of question and develop an analytical bent of mind which can be applied in giving complete content to an organized answer. The difference primarily in preliminary and mains are not the syllabus but the way to represent answer and to reach to the right conclusion. The mains exam demands reproduction of ideas where as P.T. requires choosing the right option. Student should prepare for both mains and preliminary exam simultaneously. A concrete preparation would mean starting with an incise approach identifying a strategy and selecting portions to lay stress on. A glance at previous years questions papers can be very helpful.

In a university exam (in LLB), you tend to write long answers, which comprises of 5-6 pages each, but in judicial services exam, you are meant to answer briefly. There are two essentially approaches to follow while preparing for the judicial Services exam. One is horizontal and the other is vertical.

The first comes handy for the preliminary exam where you have to read exhaustively and you must prepare to solve the objective questions. The decoding the Bare acts, comprises horizontal preparation. You can’t afford to skip even a single topic. After completing the preparation through this approach, you should start a vertical approach, which equips you to hit the bull’s eye (Mains exam). This is the lateral study of legal subjects where you have to prepare each and every topic entirely. For that we advise question oriented approach rather than text book approach and you can prepare a subject by 15 to 20 questions. A simple textbook approach can’t be followed. To cite an example, when we study the recent Supreme Court’s order prohibiting investigative agencies to carry out narco test then it must be studied in the light of different laws including Law of Evidence, Criminal Procedure Code and Constitutional Law. This way, each subject must be studied thoroughly.

In these exams, there are around 20 subjects of Law—major and minor acts offered. In the course of the preparation for the judicial services of different states, you have to do 5-10% per cent of extra preparation.

In Delhi, there is no transfer of property act but for the Judicial services in Punjab & Haryana, you must prepare the customary laws regarding family matters (marriage, succession & adoption etc).

In Uttar Pradesh, you must study local laws such as UP’s land law. Delhi’s exam asks questions from the Delhi Rent Control Act.

Another useful technique to learn Law is the ‘group’ method. You can do the grouping which will help you remember the provisions for a long duration. Every chronology in the legal books is logical and easy to remember. In the case of constitution, if we talk about Government and its powers it starts from the country, regions, citizens and come down to states, union territories and panchayat starting from part first and ending at Part tenth. The part VII was removed after constitution was amended in 1956. Interestingly, to remove the part VII of constitution, Seventh Amendment act was introduced. “As per the group method, first four parts have provisions related to country and its people while next five parts entail issues related to the administrative, legislative and judicial structure of the country. It starts from the union of India in part V and boils down to panchayat system in part IX.”

LAW@CODIFIED COMMON SENSE

Law is nothing but codified common sense. Have you ever wondered, who decided the law or how we came to have today’s version of law then I must tell you that common sense has played an important role in the minds of the lawmakers to take final call on laws. Students have to understand this in the very beginning that to perceive the significance of bare acts, they have to start the process of application of common sense and logic from the day one.

It is very important to be alert all the time about your surroundings like what is happening, more importantly why that is happening, what you can learn from that and lastly, how wise you are in the application of that learning. Being uncommon is that many times students are too reluctant to find out problems or they have their careless attitude towards the incidents happened in their surroundings. Due to that they are not able to learn from their surroundings and face complete failure during application of common sense. It is the examination hall for the students, where they require common sense the most.

You don’t need a Ph.d to exercise common sense rather it is a trait you develop with time. You must have heard this line that “Common sense is not so common”. The reason behind this is that people’s mind is already occupied by fear of failure and pressure due to which students tend to complicate simple things. So, KEEP CALM AND STAY AHEAD OF ALL.
LAW—not about Sections & Case Laws:

A common misconception about law is that it is bulky and contains mere provisions. A deep understanding of the law will translate into a genuine interest creation. It is a subject based on common sense and logic and anyone can learn.

The broad conceptual base has to be developed and its interlinkages with other topics and subjects have to be appreciated and that is what makes the study interesting. The process helps in understanding which facilitates retention and reproduction.

The recent year question papers in mains reflect that the questions have not only been asked from often repeated areas but also from the areas which have not been touched so far. The current development, happenings also condition of the mind of question-setters and they raise new issues from the same area. Some papers like Constitution, Cr.P.C, C.P.C, Evidence, S.R.Act are more dynamic in nature and pose problems for students and they requires rigorous analysis of the questions. As far as other papers are concerned, it is more Bare Act oriented and the nature of question being very simple, so it has more potential to yield the better results. Therefore approach of study and the answer writing pattern of these papers should be different. So some papers apart from analysis and comprehension requires support of current developments whereas other papers expects orientation of Bare Act along with illustrations and case laws.

Strategy for Preparation

These competitive examinations require a different kind of approach and strategy which include understanding the real syllabus, demand of the question, demand of subject, the art of writing the answers and the ability to reproduce it at the right time. This is the least that is expected from student preparing for Judicial and Civil Services.

An aspirant of Judicial Services needs to strive for excellence in his/her presentation and the first step towards achieving that is to have in depth and thorough knowledge of the subjects which can come only through hard work over a period or through competent and able guidance.

We, at Ambition, have prepared the real syllabus, which is reflected in the previous years’ questions. Here lies the difference between the most relevant and relevant topics to be studied for the examination. Most of us know the relevant things but are unable to find out the most relevant things, which make our study precise, and exam oriented.

We not only prepare our teaching syllabus, according to the demand of the examinations, but also try to solve the questions of previous years and also try to answer questions, which are in our contemplation i.e. likely to be asked.

Effective Study

In sum, to study effectively for written examination either objective or subjective, a student must to cover all the three important aspects

1. To reduce legal theories and statute down to a concise, straightforward statement of the elements which are just enough to be applied. Without knowledge of the precise elements, it is not possible to anticipate each of the potential issues which the legal theory could yield.

2. To perceive or anticipate which words or phrases within a legal principle are likely to be the source of issues and how they are likely to arise within the context of a problem.

3. To conceptualize situations in which each of the elements of a rule of law would become the source of a factual issue. Unless a student can illustrate to himself/herself an application of each element of a rule of law, he/she does not truly understand that legal principle.

Approach of Study

In the light of aforesaid aspects, approach of study should be oriented towards the following ends:

1. The student should try to develop the broad conceptual base.
2. Understanding of the linkages with the topics and other papers of Law.
3. To apply law in real factual situation
4. Temporal and spatial variations along with why this variation has happened and what is its implication.
5. To produce analytical content in the answers of mains examinations.
6. To innovate methods to the basics & crux of the topics.
ANSWERING TECHNIQUE

First prepare the background keep in mind the concerned points.

Generally a law answer should include:-

a) Statement of law
b) Illustration of Bare Act or case law or examples
c) A logical conclusion

Apart from these, one should adhere to

A) A,B,C of answer writing i.e. accuracy, brevity and clarity in presenting answers
B) innovative examples and illustrations which can explain law in the best possible way
C) spotting issues and raising arguments for & against.

PRACTICE MAKES A PERSON PERFECT

Success can be achieved only by practice which exposes weakness’ and help prepare one well.

As law is not all about sections, case laws & facts which is general perception, so it must not be read in shallow manner but one should try to delve deep into the subject by raising questions like what is the topic all about, what is its relevance, what question can be raised in the exam & how to make it interesting so it can be remembered better. The broad conceptual base has to be developed and its inter linkages with other. You Understand easy and simple concepts.

WHAT IS PROVIDE

1. We provide coaching for Foundation course of 11 months in Judicial services, weekend courses, test series and interview guidance.
2. We will teach all important papers in Law and will focus more on important areas.
3. We provide material for maximum subjects but for certain subjects we give 100% dictation in class and students are advised to note down those things in the class.
4. As far as local Laws are concerned, they will not be taught in detail rather brief outline will be given and important areas of exams will be told, except U.P. Local law which will be taught to Mains examinees.
5. For G.S, there will be special extra classes.
6. We conduct classes even for judgement writing.

We feel that career is one of the most important thing in anybody’s life so it should be planned & mentored properly under watchful eyes of an expert. So, I will strongly advise every student of law to attend these classes which will really create a change in their approach of learning law.

As we all know that winners do not do different things, but they do things differently and this is our purpose behind this particular venture, so that we can be helpful in creating that difference in approach.

How did Ambition Law Institute came into being?

Strong desire to teach motivated me to train students of neighbourhood at native & in Delhi & when I got opportunity to mentor them, they surprised me by saying that I teach well and method of communication is sui generis and so there was the spark and of course, I was looking for a rewarding career which can contribute to the growth of nation and society & hence opted to be a trainer, motivator by opening a training institute in the name of Ambition Law Institute in year 2001.

Do different exams (e.g. Judicial Services Examination, CLAT & CSE (Law)) require different preparation process?

These examinations have different goals, one is to select a person who has aptitude to learn law, another is to select who can deliver justice in social context with sense of responsibility and comparison and third one is meant to select an officer who can work for the people’s betterment as per the direction of the government. Hence the requirement of all exams are entirely different and in later part of interview I have elaborated upon strategy to be followed for cracking these exams.

Law is considered as one of the social sciences. How important therefore is the study of history, politics, economics & sociology?

Law operates in society and for society, so understanding of social, economic and political background of society is must for proper understanding of operation and execution of law. Hence, they provide suitable base for learning of Law in proper environment.

Are students today more keen to prepare for judicial services than it was a few years back?

If we look 15 years back, then judicial services exam was an irregular affair but now a days when there is so much discussion on quick justice delivery and it has been reiterated by the Supreme Court also time and again and has been realized by executive too that there is very poor population-judge ratio in India, therefore there is huge demand of judges at all levels and these days different states are conducting exams every year. So, obviously students find a good career option in form of lower as well as higher judicial services.

What is an ideal preparation time for a student for these above exams? Do they vary for exam to exam?

Ideal time to begin is when one decides to appear in exam and students of differential capacities will take different time period to prepare for it.

Ideal time to begin is when one decides to appear in exam and students of differential capacities will take different time period to prepare for it. For that purpose one can begin as early as possible so that he/she can plan and strategise as accordingly in advance but at least two year time framework is must.

Modern Era has thrown open diverse options and opportunities to Law students. In this regard, Ambition Law Institute has adopted an approach to train the aspirants to meet the challenges of different career options be it advocacy or justice delivery or confirming to corporate career or be it Law Managers etc. All of these demand application of multidisciplinary approach and establishing interlinkages at interdisciplinary & intradisciplinary level, application of Criminal & Civil procedure to substantive Law like Law relating to criminal and civil wrong for finding best solution and of course it needs training of highest standard which can make them competent to cross over hurdles at different stages of providing solutions.

The institute was established with sole aim to provide high quality and relevant education and training to meet the requirement of the modern era competitive exams standard so that the aspirants from any segment of society could have full confidence to pass any exam in legal sphere at lowest cost. We are seriously committed to our mission to provide the finest legal education and to prepare the next generation of leaders, to build the nation and reform the society.

When I look back, I feel proud that we have been able to produce more number of Civil Servants with law optional and huge number of judicial officers from Kashmir to Kanyakumari and from Kutch to Arunachal who have been doing excellent job in their respective areas and carrying our ambition flag high.

Apart from this, we have trained many to become great lawyers, corporate law managers P.P.s and APPs along with Professors & Lecturers who are flag bearers of our unique innovative and absorbing method of imparting education and making learning an enjoyable experience.

Not only this we have started our own publication in the name of Ambition Publications to reach out to masses by publishing books at lowest cost and the first book which we published is an “Idea of Constitution” – a short, simple summary of Indian Constitution which can be comprehended by common man. And now we are publishing even simplified version of Bare Acts to help students even at remote places to learn law in easier and better way.

In contrast to other institute of repute, we charge lesser fee to serve the students and our faculties go to different universities to share their ideas of learning law and preparing to help the students studying there. So, we understand our responsibility to society in true spirit and not in words and promises.

JUDICIAL SERVICE (Preparation Strategy)

The judicial services have two entry levels. The first is for fresh graduates through an entrance exam conducted by the respective State Public Service Commissions (like Punjab, Haryana, UP, Bihar, Rajasthan etc.) or the High Court (Delhi). The syllabus for these examinations can be found on the website of the commissions which includes law subjects along with English, General Knowledge and the Local language of the State. Even Ambition publishes copy of syllabus of judicial services. An entry through this avenue assures you of time based promotions and a secured employment early in your career.

The second avenue through which you may join the judicial service is known as the Higher Judicial Service (HJS). This service is open for lawyers with a certain prescribed period of litigation practice (i.e. seven years). For that applicants have to appear in a competitive examination conducted by the High Court of Judicature of different States and the syllabus for which is similar to the one described above. The advantage with this option is that if selected the applicant gets posted as an Additional District Judge which significantly hastens promotional prospects and the candidate can become a High Court Judge.

Judicial Services examination is three tier exam which demands different preparation plan & strategy at different levels. The first stage is preliminary which require Bare Act analysis, conceptual & contextual clarity, awareness of spatial and temporal variations apart from memorising some factual information. For this purpose we need to prepare an aspirant for understanding the scheme of Bare Act. As we strongly believe Law is Common sense & Logic and everything has an arrangement and order and as there is synthesis in human body parts as head is at the top & Leg is at Law has immense utility in General Studies as Polity and international relation and Essay writing too and I may say that administration cannot be run without learning law. So, law is must know area for an administrator the bottom, similarly in all Bare Acts we have an order & organization, there is just need to pick it up in the correct order and that is what we do in our training. For example in Cr.P.C. there will be investigation first then report will be filed and then any judge can take cognizance and begin trial and at this stage there will be question of territorial jurisdiction of court and after trial only there can be acquittal or conviction and if aggrieved, there can be chance of appeal, review etc, so the arrangement of chapters & sections are like that. This arrangement awareness and understanding can make you very comfortable in memorizing sections, and chapters and it is key to Preliminary Exam.

I believe that text finds its meaning in context so understanding everything in context is necessary for proper understanding.

Then comes the second level of written exam where one is required to provide solution to application based questions or reproduction of ideas in answer to theoretical questions and at last level interview session to examine suitability of a person as a judge who can deliver justice with sense of responsibility. For this purpose We, at Ambition, have blend of experience and energy in our team to produce best quality teaching which answers all questions related to a topic and has been designed in such a manner to make understanding easy, interesting and absorbing and in a way it is meant to train the minds to think.

The training of students are imparted in such a way that they can tackle the most complex questions asked in exam. The teaching methodology helps students to retain the idea in mind for long time & to produce them with ease in different pattern & style to suit the needs of different exam. Here we train students to prepare the best answers in their own words and we advise them to prepare synoptical notes with sections and cases in their own words.

CLAT : An emerging option

CLAT has only one stage of objective exam consisting of the components of Legal Aptitude, Logical Reasoning, English Language, Mathematical Aptitude and General Awareness which has good standard and requires practice in time frame as there are 200 questions to be solved in two hours. We suggest students first to master principles & then practice on everyday basis.

Legal Aptitude, Logical Reasoning and to an extent English Grammar & usage require proper grasp of certain limited principles to be applied.

Learning of general awareness is a long process which must be learnt in story type manner otherwise cramming of facts is too cumbersome process. So we advise students to read one good newspaper like Indian Express everyday and to build a story in mind and this newspaper reading helps them to improve English Language understanding, vocabulary & usage apart from helping them in learning legal developments like passing of new laws & ordinances, recent decisions of the Apex Court, understanding legal terms along with current legal happenings around them.

Law (Must for IAS)

Law as an optional in IAS is based on common sense understanding & application of variety of interesting Laws like Crime, Contract, Tort apart from contemporary legal development in different fields of law related to consumer protection to environment protection, understanding of information technology law to Copyright & Patent. Apart from them, prevention of corruption, protection of Civil Rights help an aspirant to serve society better. Constitution is a basic law which helps in Polity and working of different constitutional machinery apart from governmental policies and plan which has to be in accordance with DPSP and International Law helps them to understand international dimensions in legal sphere which can make them confident in dealing with International Affairs.

The nature of questions generally find context in key areas & current happenings so it becomes predictable too. Only requirement is basic indepth understanding of topics of the syllabus in current context.

Law as such is nothing but common sense & Logic so any student can adopt this subject as one of the safest optional because it needs common sense application of set of rules in a given situation to find solution and has immense utility in General Studies as Polity and international relation and Essay writing too and I may say that administration cannot be run without learning law. So, law is must know area for an administrator.

Our Training (Preparation Pedagogy)

These days, as success does not come only by learning law but even proficiency in English, depth of General knowledge, writing skills in Essay & mastery in translation also count, so we give importance to these areas also by conducting classes for these things. As you might be aware that many students know law but they fail due to their unpreparedness in other areas but at the same time these things cannot be overemphasized. So we have formulated our lecture plan to give them desired importance. We follow certain basic thumb rules which are as follows:

- Begins with basics - Session for every subject begins with the basics of the syllabus. We don't assume that students have come to us well-prepared.
- Proven experience and reputation – Ambition has been serving students from across the spectrum in all capacities for over a decade and has been the undisputed leader in providing meaningful preparatory legal education.
- Student centric approach – All our teachers and staff are dedicated towards making classes congenial for students. We commit ourselves into evolving in as many ways as possible to suit the needs and aspirations of our students. The pace, intensity and remedial attributes are carefully placed keeping only the students at the realm.
- Dedicated Expertise – Preparation of such immensely competitive exams demand a dedicated team of experts who at Ambition, work tirelessly round the clock so that the most updated, relevant and concise literature could be ready for students use.

I will sincerely advise all aspirants & their parents to take decision after exercising due care and caution in selecting career as well as the institute. We should go by the quality of teaching and mentors rather than relying exclusively on results as many institutes give session for one day in the name of interview guidance or answer writing and then publish photographs which is quite misleading and by show of the photographs they charge hefty fee as well and aspirants unaware of truth fall prey to their claim.
